

Wallclean

Brickwork Cleaner & Facework Renovator

Wallclean is a member of our Industrial Descaler range. Over time bricks and facework can become blemished due to a variety of unsightly pollutants adhering to their surface. In the past, aggressive cleaners would not only clean but burn or discolour in the process. Wallclean is a powerful combination of cleaning agents which is extremely effective in restoring masonry surfaces to their original state without harming them in any way.

Instantly active, this easily applied concentrate works by attacking and removing cement scale, mortar splats and stains from exteriors such as patios, quarry floors and tiles. The product has special wetting agents which break down surface tension, penetrating quickly to dissolve efflorescence. Following a simple washing of the treated area, the brickwork looks as good as new.

Low in odour and very easy to use, this robust descaler can be used in conjunction with Chemaide's specialised sprayer or more simply with a bucket and brush. Wallclean is non-combustible and extremely safe to administer and will not cause damage to most paints and finishes.

- This specially formulated blend of acid and surfactants cleans without damaging the surface
- Wallclean acts immediately saving time and money
- The descaler can be used on many different surface applications requiring the stocking of only one product
